We consider that understanding our personal and collective ancestral roots with their healing and strengthening properties is an inexhaustible resource for personal myth making and individual self-realization. Each one of us connects past experience with hopes and dreams of the future, and in this way creates the present moment.

To share our knowledge and experience we take pleasure in offering colleagues and interested parties to one of Latvia’s most picturesque cities – Sigulda. Here we have a beautiful space in which to broaden our experience, communicate and share, to further extend our resources in transpersonal psychology.
